Report of the Secretary-General on the United Nations Stabilization Mission in Haiti

Addendum

1. Further to my report on the United Nations Stabilization Mission in Haiti (MINUSTAH) dated 13 May 2005 (S/2005/313), I wish to inform the Security Council that the financial implications of my recommendations to enhance the capacity of the Mission included in paragraphs 46 to 49 of the report are currently projected at some $62.6 million for a 12-month period, including $47.7 million in recurrent and $14.9 million in non-recurrent costs.

2. The projections provide for the deployment of 800 additional military personnel, comprising one additional infantry battalion of 750 troops and 50 staff officers, as well as 275 additional civilian police officers, including 125 in one additional formed unit. The projections also provide for the emplacement of 26 international civilian personnel, 38 national personnel and 29 United Nations Volunteers.

3. An indicative breakdown of the financial implications of the proposed increase of the military and police component ceilings of the Mission by main categories of expenditure is provided, for information purposes, in the annex to the present addendum.

4. It is my recommendation to the General Assembly that, should the Security Council endorse my recommendations, the related costs be considered an expense of the Organization to be borne by Member States in accordance with Article 17, paragraph 2, of the Charter of the United Nations, and that the assessments levied on Member States be credited to the Special Account for MINUSTAH.
